

ST. ANN'S WINS ITS SECOND GAME BEFORE BIG CROWD

Local Eleven Defeats Cheltenham in Well-Played Tilt, 7 to 6

CHICHELETTI'S RUN Extra Point Was Scored By Proffy To Win Game

St. Ann's A. A. won its second game of the Northeast Philadelphia Conference yesterday afternoon on Leedom's field, defeating last season's runner-up, Cheltenham, 7-6, in a well-played tilt.

A 75-yard run-back of a kick by "Nate" Chicheletti plus the extra point boot by Tom Proffy gave the "Saints" the triumph to put them on top in the conference.

Chicheletti's run was a masterpiece. He started by cutting down the right side of the field and twice was boxed in but instead of going out of bounds, he twisted and squirmed until his interference knocked down the Cheltenham players like flies. From then on, he sprinted on the left side of the field and still had two players for objection.

The "Chelties" gave the local team plenty of opposition, especially in the last quarter when Maguire started to throw his aerial which netted the visitors' only score with less than a minute to play. The last drive of the invaders started when Merrill fumbled for St. Ann's and Krummer fell on the ball on the St. Ann's 40. After two passes made a first down on the 25, Maguire heaved a long pass to Eisenman who caught the ball over the goal-line.

In the try for the extra point, Merrill redeemed his fumble-play by rushing in and blocking the attempted placement.

St. Ann's were outscored in first downs, Cheltenham having 12 to the resident team's 8. But the "Saints" outplayed their foe for three-quarters of the game, twice having the ball inside the ten-yard line. But on both occasions, the Cheltenham team refused to budge with its backs towards its goal-line and took the ball on downs.

"Jimmy" Potena played a fine defensive game for St. Ann's until injured in the third quarter. Baurath and Merrill played good ball on the offense. For Cheltenham, Sullivan, Maguire, and Krummer played a fine game.

Activities of Interest To All in The Various Communities

GLEANED BY SCRIBES

One of the largest and best known meat processing firms in the State, E. W. Knauss & Son, of Quakertown, has announced to its patrons that it is another of the victims of OPA bungling.

The firm, established 44 years ago, explains the situation which confronted it as follows: "E. W. Knauss & Son, who have been in business in Quakertown since 1902, are sorry to announce that they will close their business indefinitely at the end of this week. It is impossible to purchase live stock and remain in compliance with unjust regulations.

"In order to keep our reputation and not be classified as 'black marketers,' we have been forced to sell at a loss. The black markets are entirely the result of government price-fixing. They now include meat, motors, building materials, textiles, apparel, sugar, rentals, etc. This proves that the renewed price-fixing has already broken down.

"We regret the release of our fine organization of meat cutters and butchers who have been with us from six to forty-one years. Until such time as there is again fair competition in business, removal of meat quotas, and the O. P. A. ceilings are dead and buried, our places of business will remain inactive."

Sellersville's new parking system, prohibiting motor car parking on the west side of the Bethlehem Pike in the borough went into effect.

Chief of Police Frank Hallman said the new ruling will be in effect seven days a week. The police head said no violators were arrested on the opening day.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

EL PASO, Texas—Federal narcotic agents today announced the smashing of an international dope ring. The agents said that in breaking the back of the ring 24,000 pounds of marijuana, valued at $53,000 at peddlers' prices, were seized. In a nation-wide dragnet, two men were apprehended in El Paso and 10 others were arrested in Chicago, New York and in Ohio.

WASHINGTON—An official announcement said today that Secretary of State Cordell Hull "appears to be out of any immediate danger." The bulletin, issued by the Navy Department, was the most optimistic since the war-time Secretary of State entered Naval Hospital last week after being stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage.

NEW YORK—A man attempting suicide was killed today and seven others injured in an explosion which ripped through a fifth floor apartment of the 19-story building at 304 W. 75th Street. Police believe the man had attempted to take his own life by inhaling gas, which in some manner was exploded, probably by the pilot light of the kitchen range or a spark from the door bell.

Badger School Bought By J. Alfred Rigby

The Badger school building, located on State Road, between Bristol and Croydon, was sold by Bristol Township school board at public auction Saturday afternoon to J. Alfred Rigby, of Cornwells Heights.

The sale price was $5,000. Bidding started at approximately $1,000, advancing quickly to $4,000, then mounted slowly to $5,000.

Mr. Rigby did not make public to what use the building will be put.

The structure, 62 years old, is of stone construction. It consists of one floor (containing one large room and toilet facilities); and a basement. There are cesspool connections. The ground surrounding it totals one acre.

MOORE AND BASSETT WEDDING SOLEMNIZED

Miss Dorothy Bassett is The Bride of Wm. W. Moore At Church Ceremony

DINNER, RECEPTION

The Rev. W. E. Preston Haas officiated at the marriage ceremony in Bristol Methodist Church on Saturday afternoon which united Miss Dorothy A. Bassett, daughter of Mrs. Ruth Bassett, 311 Wilson street, and Mr. William W. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bartholomew Moore, Pond street. Mr. John Kale, of Burlington, N. J., escorted his granddaughter to the altar at the hour of two to give her in marriage.

The organist, Miss Winifred V. Tracy, Buckley street, presided at the organ console, she playing the bridal marches and accompanying Mrs. Arthur Peterson, New Buckley street, who sang "I Love You Truly," "Because," and "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life."

The former Miss Bassett wore an attractive gown of ivory toned satin with long, flowing train. Bands were used as trim on the yoke, and also at the front of the bodice with horizontal shirring on either side. The gown buttoned down the back with small satin-covered buttons, and the sleeves tapered over her hands. Her veil with face veil was edged with a double row of wide lace. This was held in place by a head-dress of orange blossoms. She wore white satin slippers and carried a bouquet of mixed white flowers, with roses predominating.

Miss Doris Moore, Pond street, sister of the groom, who was maid of honor, was attired in pink and carried yellow roses. Mrs. Robert Meade, Pond street, and Miss Elizabeth Combs, Wilson street, were the bridesmaids. Their gowns were of blue, and their bouquets were composed of pink roses. The costumes of the three were of elegance and floor length. They had short sleeves, and yoke trim was in shirring. Silver slippers were worn, and their floral headpieces and veils matched their individual gowns.

FALSE PROMISES

The clique which has taken over the Democratic party and has been having a grand time running the government now is fighting for its political life.

All signs point to a smashing Republican victory next November, in which Pennsylvania will re-elect a Republican state government and help elect a strong Republican majority in Congress.

Fourteen years of mismanagement, plus the incompetence of the Truman Administration, plus the deep-seated split in the Democratic party, have begun to catch up with the New Dealers.

But the campaign will not be over until the votes are counted.

Many times before the New Dealers have squeezed out of tight holes. With patronage and promises, they have succeeded in holding their uncertain grip on the national government.

They have used many devices to win. Two years ago, when the party turned itself over to the then-New PAC, and with the war fervor still on, and with 3,000,000 payroll workers and their families in there pitching for a New Deal victory, the campaign still was no push-over for the Democrats.

The way in which the New Dealers really won was simple enough, though so cleverly hidden that innumerable voters failed to see exactly how the sleight-of-hand boys fooled them.

At this season two years ago, OPA controls were being thrown away. Rationing was reduced, in some cases wiped out. A reconversion program was in full swing. War controls were being surrendered.

Without it being put exactly in words, everyone was given to understand that the war was practically over, that our hardships were past, that prosperity, abundance and free enterprise were about to be resumed.

TELLS HOUSEWIVES TO PREVENT FIRES

Cautions Against Carelessness in the Home Likely To Cause Fires

LIST THE "DON'TS"

By Edith M. Hopkins
(Home Economics Representative of Bucks County)

October 6th to 12th is "National Fire Prevention Week" and home-makers are urged to be captains of their family teams during this week, as well as every week in the year, to prevent fires.

The frightful statistics of fire in the United States are going upward. Last year fire took 3500 lives on farms and destroyed $200,000,000 in rural property, nearly half of total fire losses.

Where will these staggering figures stop and retreat? The answer is up to every member in every family in the United States.

What can you as an individual homemaker or a family group do to help reduce these figures? Here are ways you can help:

1. Keep electric cords to lamps, toaster, iron, and other appliances in good repair?
2. Keep electric cords up off the floor.
3. Don't run electric cords under rugs.
4. Keep matches in metal or glass containers and out of reach of small children.
5. Throw used matches into metal or glass containers.
6. Do not use kerosene or gasoline to start a fire.
7. Do not dry-clean clothes in a room where there is an open flame.
8. Don't place a gas or kerosene stove directly under a window where there are curtains.
9. Have the chimneys and stove-pipes inspected.
10. Do not hang clothes, tea towels, or other fabrics over a stove to dry.
11. Do not wear long, loose-fitting garments when working at the stove.
12. Do not use a corner of your apron for a holder.
13. Use glass or metal ash trays.
14. Do not smoke in bed.
15. Be prepared. Know what to do in case a fire starts on your premises.

SMALL WORLD

Windjammers required a matter of months to sail from Australia to the United States. The Truculent Turtle, a Navy patrol bomber, did it in 55 hours and 18 minutes.

Incidentally, the big two-engine Lockheed Neptune flew from Perth, Australia, to Columbus, O., a distance of 11,237 miles, breaking all record for non-stop long-range flights. Congratulations are in order for the Truculent Turtle's crew of four Navy officers for writing another brilliant chapter in the history of American aviation and emphasizing how small this world really is.

America is retaining its lead in aviation progress, and this is the nation's best defense. As long as American planes can outfly Russian planes and the impact of American bombs is immeasurably greater than that of Russian bombs, Stalin can only rant and rave and concentrate on his present policy of attempting to wreck the American economy from within.

OPERATION ROAR

Realizing that objectionably noisy small airplanes are a major obstacle in the development of community airport programs, the civil aeronautics administration set about to find the cause and the remedy. As a result of CAA-sponsored experiments at Langley Field, Virginia, research scientists now have come up with the answers.

They demonstrated, in the presence of representatives of manufacturers of personal planes, that the propeller, not the engine, is to blame. First, a small plane of a well-known make was wound up to the takeoff rate with its two-bladed propeller. The noise was the usual deafening one. Then an exactly similar propeller, brought up to the same ground speed but attached to a plane powered with a silent electric motor, produced a noise fully as loud as the one turned by the gasoline motor.

The scientists recommend propellers with eight blades instead of two, revolving at much slower speeds to produce the same thrust. A demonstration with a four-bladed propeller resulted in greatly reduced din. Some manufacturers expressed the belief that the weight and cost of eight-bladed propellers would make their use impracticable on little aircraft. But CAA officials insist that the noise problem is now up to the makers and that a solution can be had along the lines suggested.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

(By Courier Staff Member)

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol Oct. 12, 1893. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

The regular monthly meeting of the burgess and council was held in the council chamber on last Monday evening. There were present T. R. Harkins, burgess; and Messrs. Curran, Clark, Fetrow, Grundy, Kelley, Maule, Pearson, Robinson, Scott, Smith, Spring, Strauser, Weaver, Whitely, and Wright, council.

The finance committee reported that the application of Jesse Bromley for exemption of taxation of his glove factory for a period of ten years, had received its attention and recommended that the property be exempted for ten years from July 1, 1893.

The handsome residence of Leo Landreth, on Radcliffe street, is rapidly approaching completion.

(Following items from Gazette of Oct. 19, 1893.)

A large barn on the farm of David Landreth & Sons' seed farm at Edgely station, Bristol township, was destroyed by fire Friday morning. Twenty tons of hay in the barn were also consumed. The fire is believed to have been started by an incendiary.

A new Republican paper which will aim to be an organ is shortly to be started in Doylestown. The stock has been subscribed, the building has been rented, the press and engine have been purchased, a corps of compositors and printers has been secured, and the new paper will in a few days open. The "Bucks County Republican" will be the name of the paper. It is proposed to have both a daily and a weekly issue.

County treasurer Henry B. Banes has moved into his new house on Otter street.

Mr. William J. Ackers, an old soldier, a respected citizen and worthy member of H. Clay Beatty Post, G. A. R., and Martha Washington Chamber, K. of K., died last

(Following item from Bucks Co. Gazette of Mar. 19, 1902. Submitted by Joseph W. Barton.)

Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Barton, of Washington street, received a pleasant surprise on Thursday evening. Mr. Barton is a blacksmith, employed at the Bristol Carpet Mills, and having recently embarked in the matrimonial business his friends arranged to visit him and give him an old-fashioned serenade at his new home. After making full preparations the procession moved silently to the rear of the house, and when all was in readiness Messrs. John Harrison and George Strouse opened the program with selections on a well-tuned horse fiddle, the other instruments, tin pans, horns, etc., joining in the chorus. The music was exceedingly sweet and much enjoyed by all the neighbors in that vicinity. After several selections had been rendered Mr. Barton appeared and invited the visitors into the house. Samuel Adams in an appropriate speech presented to Mr. and Mrs. Barton a handsome Morris chair. While the visit was supposed to have been kept a secret, yet from the elaborate luncheon which the host set before his guests, it is suspected that Mr. and Mrs. Barton had somehow obtained knowledge of their intention and prepared themselves to do their part in making the affair a pleasant one. Jack Harrison acted as master of ceremonies and did full justice to his position. Several vocal solos were rendered by James Guy, George Hoffish and George Buckley. Samuel Holden favored with selections on the concertina.

This was strictly a phony. But it lasted out the campaign.

It was not until after the election, when the German breakthrough showed how seriously our war effort had been weakened building up the picture of "good times" on the home front, and not until we received dispatches telling, for example, of our soldiers fighting it out in the Alps still wearing the summer clothes of the African campaign, that it became clear the American public had been deceived.

The device of false promises is one of the oldest tricks up the sleeves of power-mad politicians.

There is bound to be an effort to capture victory from defeat by some such means in the remaining weeks of this campaign.

It is very unlikely that shortages themselves can be remedied. The meat situation, for instance, is in much too hopeless a tangle for the New Dealers to flood the markets with beef and pork in the last days before November 5. The sugar situation is complicated by strikes in the sugar plants and by the shipping tie-up. The long-promised "housing" can't be finished in time.

But there are other ways of setting up the picture of rosy promises and future good times—pictures as unsubstantial as the flickering of a movie on the screen.

Some of this is beginning to appear. There are constant promises that this scarcity and that is about over. True, we have been hearing the same promises for years—but perhaps there still are those who can be fooled by such predictions.

For months the President has been talking "economy" and promising a balanced budget. He hasn't stopped the wholesale waste, and his budget is many billions out of balance; but the promise is constantly being repeated.

After years of muddling and appeasement, the State Department finally has adopted, temporarily at least, a popular "tough" attitude towards Russia. There is no real substance to this policy as yet; no one who has watched Byrnes in action through the months expects his department to develop a back-bone any more than a chocolate éclair.

There is constant talk that the time has now come to release a great many of the war controls—the very ones which, only weeks ago, we were told the national government imperatively needed to keep food abundant at low prices, to keep labor peace, and to prevent inflation. This sounds good; that's why it's being said.

One of the most interesting pieces of defensive propaganda is the statement being copied far and wide by various columnists, radio commentators, and the like, that the next Congress is bound to be "conservative," no matter which party wins.

This is an ingenious thought to "plant" in the campaign.

Of course no New Dealer is going on the air with it; but the idea is to reassure all those, of both parties, who are seriously worried over the trends of the national government towards inflation, bankruptcy and Communism.

It has only one purpose—to try to halt the swing to the Republican Party.

It is unsound because it ignores an important factor. The real source of the deadlock in the national government is the split of the Democratic party into irreconcilable radical and conservative wings, under a President who lacks the skill and courage to meet them halfway. This split will continue, even if the Democrats should win.

The only way to get a united Congress, which is so urgently needed to meet the national emergencies, is to elect a Republican majority.

The time is ripe to give a friendly tip to voters. Keep your eyes open! Don't be fooled again, at the last minute, by false promises! It is easy for anyone to say he is going to reform—but few do!

Come out and vote—and VOTE REPUBLICAN!

MRS. DUNCAN has just finished her Fall housecleaning, and Duncan is welcome in his own home again.

Curtains, crisply ironed, hang at the windows. Rugs are bright and clean. Blankets, sweetened by sun and suds, lol contentedly on the beds. Everything's fresh and shining. Mrs. Duncan is tired, but happy. Mr. Duncan is happier. The dog is happiest of all.

Once housecleaning was the housewife's horror. Now, with modern electric gadgets, the semi-annual cyclone is finished in half the time, with half the effort.

And not only housecleaning—but all household chores—are easier, simpler, when electricity lends a willing hand. This versatile servant cooks, cleans, washes and irons, brightens the home, guards health, scoops entertainment from the very air—and all for the cost of a bar of soap daily.

Tullytown Girl is Wed To A Bristol Resident

An attractive fall wedding was solemnized in St. Ann's R. C. Church at the 11 o'clock mass yesterday morning when Miss Anna Mazzocchi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Mazzocchi, Tullytown, became the bride of Mr. William DePasquale, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas DePasquale, Pond street.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Peter Pinc. The bride was escorted to the flower-trimmed altar by her father, Miss Frances Tamborello, organist, played the wedding marches and accompanied St. Ann's choir in its selections.

The bride chose as her maid of honor, Miss Philomena Paone, of Tullytown. Her gown of orchid satin featured a round neckline, net yoke, long sleeves, tight-fitting bodice, and full skirt. Her picture hat was of orchid net, and she wore silver slippers. Mrs. Paone carried a bouquet of mixed flowers. Miss Flora DePasquale, sister of the groom, and Miss Marie Napoli, of Tullytown, served as bridesmaids. Their dresses were identical to that of Miss Paone. Miss DePasquale wore gold, and Miss Napoli, peach. They wore silver slippers and carried bouquets of mixed flowers.

Mr. Michael Spinelli served as best man, with Mr. Lawrence Silv, Tullytown, acting as usher.

The bride's gown was of white satin. It featured a round neckline, lace yoke with off-the-shoulder effect, long sleeves trimmed with lace, tight-fitting bodice, and full skirt.

skirt trimmed with lace and ending in a lace-trimmed train. The bride wore a long veil held by a small Dutch cap. As she entered the edifice she carried a white prayer book topped by gardenias, and carried a bouquet of white roses for the recessional.

Mrs. Mazzocchi, mother of the bride, was attired in a black dress with pink lace trim, black accessories, and wore a corsage of gardenias. Mrs. DePasquale, the groom's mother, chose a black dress with fuchsia trim, black and fuchsia accessories, and a corsage of gardenias.

A wedding breakfast was served to the bridal party and immediate families at the home of the groom's parents. In the late afternoon, dinner was served to the bridal party at Lehigh Farms, Morrisville. Commencing at 6:30 a reception took place in Mutual Aid Hall, approximately 350 attending.

The newlyweds are spending a week in Montreal, Canada. Mrs. DePasquale chose a black suit, black slippers and bag, white gloves and blouse. She wore a corsage of gardenias.

The groom was recently discharged from the U. S. Army with a rank of technical sergeant, following 3½ years service, most of the time being spent in the Pacific area. The bride's attendants were presented with rhinestone necklaces and bracelets by the bride. The groom gave his best man and usher tie clasps sets.

The couple will make their home with the bride's parents.

Many a big deal has been made possible through a small want ad.

Miss Evelyn Streeper Is Bride of C. F. McMorrow

With her father giving her in marriage, Miss Evelyn Mildred Streeper, daughter of Mr. J. Markley Streeper, 261 Roosevelt street, became the wife of Charles F. McMorrow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McMorrow, Sr., of Burlington, N. J. The early evening ceremony took place in Bristol Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Edward G. Yeomans officiating at the double ring ceremony.

The organist, Mrs. Marburg D. Weagley, Mulberry street, accompanied Mrs. James Swank, Lafayette street, who sang "Because," "I Love You Truly," and "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life."

The ceremony was performed in a setting of palms, interspersed with baskets of white gladioli and mixed flowers.

The bride was attired in white, and her attendants in pastel shades of pink, yellow and aqua. The gown worn by the former Miss Streeper was of satin and nylon, satin being used for the bodice and long-pointed sleeves; and nylon as an overskirt, and also used as a yoke. A hand of dainty lace provided a drop-shoulder effect. The skirt swept to a full train. Her white headed tiera held a long, scalloped veil of net. She wore white slippers and carried a shower bouquet of white roses.

Mrs. Milton Miller, Jr., Monroe street, who served as matron of honor, wore a gown of pink tulle, with square neck-line, a shirred panel down the front of the bodice, short sleeves with shirring effect; and horizontally corded full skirt. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Thomas McMorrow, Jr., Burlington, and Miss Florence Doto, Edgely. The former wore yellow, and the latter wore the gowns being net over tulle. These gowns had short-puffed sleeves, sweetheart necklines, and shirred bodices. Skirts were floor-length and cut full. The trio wore white slippers; floral headpieces and face veils to match their gowns; and all carried mixed bouquets of flowers with bows matching their individual costumes.

The best man was Mr. John Streeper, Jr., Roosevelt street, brother of the bride; with Mr. Thomas McMorrow, Jr., Burlington, brother of the groom, and Mr. Robert Streeper, brother of the bride, as ushers.

One hundred and fifty guests were served at a reception dinner in the community hall at Bristol Terrace.

Today's Quiet Moment

By Rev. Lehman Strauss,
Pastor
Calvary Baptist Church

Text: Philippians 1:21
"For me to live is Christ, and to die is gain."

O Lord, we praise Thee that Thou hast sweetened death for all those who trust in Thee. While the unbeliever who knows not Jesus Christ says: "For me to live is self," and has an incentive to live, we rejoice in the Bible view of death for every child of God. Help us to never again place ourselves first, but to make Christ pre-eminent in our lives. Then if death comes to us, we know that it does not mean eternal loss, but gain. Hear our prayer for Jesus' sake. Amen.

An orchestra provided music at the reception. The newlyweds then left for a week's journey to Washington, D. C., and some southern states. The bride wore as a travelling costume an aqua toned wool suit, white blouse, brown felt hat and accessories, and corsage of roses from her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Streeper, step-mother of the bride, chose for the wedding a black crepe dress with bodice trim of black and rose sequins, gray coat, black hat and accessories. Mrs. McMorrow, the groom's mother, wore a gray dress and coat, black felt hat and black accessories. Both wore pink rose corsages.

The couple plan to reside in Burlington. The bride, a graduate of Bristol high school, is employed by Philco Corp., Croydon. Mr. McMorrow, who served with the U. S. Army for 39 months in the Pacific Theatre of Operations, is employed by Rohm and Haas Co. The bride's gifts to her attendants were gold compacts; while Mr. McMorrow presented his best man and ushers with key chains and the clasps set with cameos.
